Message from the County Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Mary Ann Dewan

Hello everyone,

As so many celebrate the end of Ramadan with Eid-al-Fitr, today serves as a humble reminder to be grateful for what we have, and to share with those who may be less fortunate. Together, we can help one another with thoughtful guidance, happiness, and love throughout the year.

Sharing our core beliefs and practices with one another extends to acknowledging the contributions school nurses make every day. Today is School Nurse's Day, and as unsung heroes in our schools, they are the anchors who improve the safety, health, and academic success of all students. Making a positive impact on the community at large, school nurses address a variety of wellness and prevention practices that support children and families with healthy lifestyle choices.

Wellness and prevention practices are also crucial when it comes to Food Allergy Awareness. One (1) in 13 children has a food allergy, and nearly 40 percent of these children have already experienced a severe allergic reaction, often in school. Be sure to let the school know about any known allergies. In return, this important information should be met with respect and support for a person's needs. Food Allergy Research & Education (FARE) also has information on Food Allergy Awareness \(Foodallergy.org\) for schools, families, and the community at large.

Lastly, now that the U.S. Food and Drug Administration's authorization of the Pfizer COVID-19 vaccine has been approved for youth ages 12 to 15, many vaccination clinics plan to extend their eligibility criteria accordingly. Currently, no appointment is necessary at many locations. Visit the County of Santa Clara Public Health Department's website for more information. Please support the health and safety of our communities and get a vaccination when it is your turn to do so. We are stronger together.

Be Well,

Mary Ann Dewan, Ph.D.

The Emergency Broadband Benefit Program - Helping people stay connected during the COVID-19 pandemic

FCC The Emergency Broadband Benefit Program is administered by USAC with oversight from the Federal Communications Commission (FCC).

Emergency Broadband Benefit Program

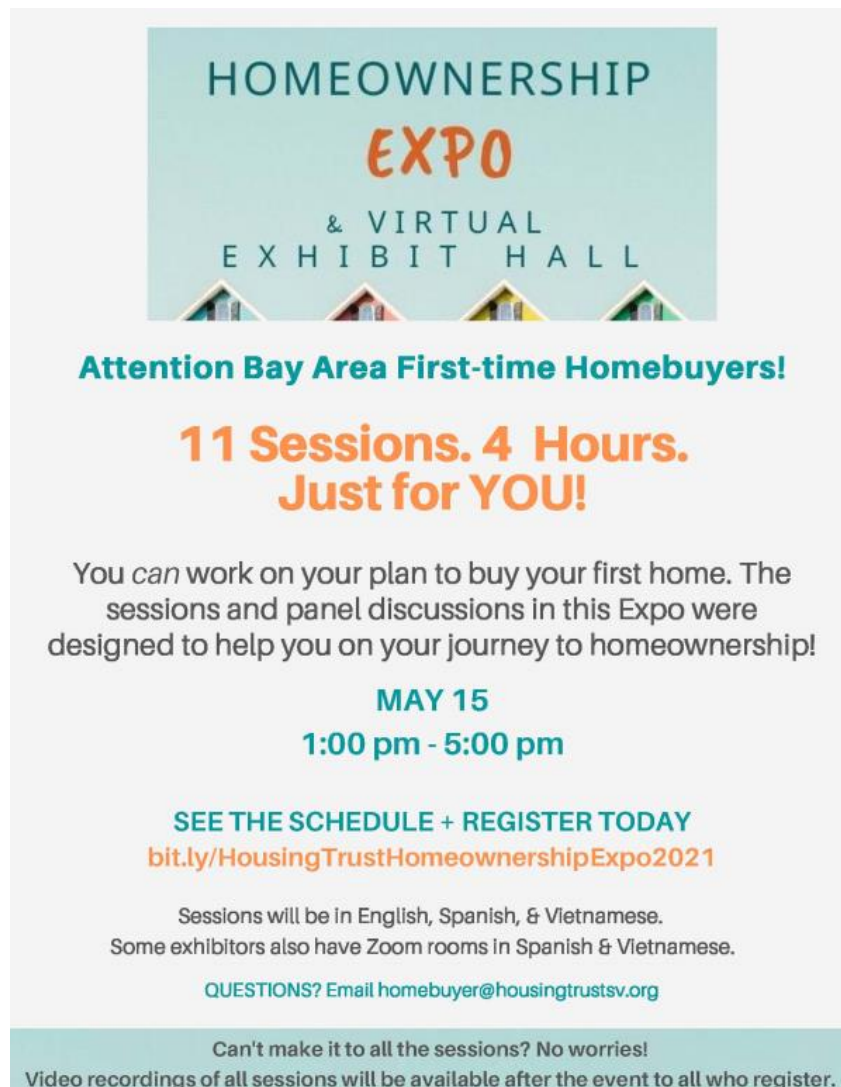

Emergency Broadband Benefit Program Available

The Emergency Broadband Benefit Program is a Federal Communications Commission (FCC) program that provides a temporary discount on monthly broadband bills for qualifying low-income households. If your household is eligible, you can receive:

- Up to a $50/month discount on your broadband service and associated equipment rentals
- Up to a $75/month discount if your household is on qualifying Tribal lands
- A one-time discount of up to $100 for a laptop, tablet, or desktop computer (with a co-payment of more than $10 but less than $50)

Only one monthly service discount and one device discount is allowed per household. The FCC has announced that consumers can begin applying for and enrolling in the Emergency Broadband Benefit Program on May 12, 2021. The program will end when the fund runs out of money, or six months after the Department of Health and Human Services declares an end to the COVID-19 health emergency, whichever is sooner.
