Background

On November 6, 2012, the voters of California approved Proposition 30, which temporarily increased the state's sales tax and the personal income tax rates for upper-income taxpayers. Part of the revenue generated would be used to support Local Educational Agency (LEA) funding, with the remainder helping to balance the state budget.

Revenues generated from Proposition 30 are deposited into a state account called the Education Protection Account (EPA). The EPA began January 1, 2012, and continues for seven years (December 31, 2018), during the time that Proposition 30 will be effective. Proposition 55 was approved on November 8, 2016, which extends the EPA account through 2030.

Current Status

The creation of the EPA by Proposition 30 also comes with some accountability components. One requirement is having the spending plan approved by the governing board during a public meeting. Another requirement is that the LEA must publish on its website (each year) an accounting of the estimated revenue it will receive from the EPA and how much will be expended. In addition, EPA funds cannot be used for the salaries or benefits of administrators or any other administrative costs.

Enclosed is the Santa Clara County Office of Education's estimated EPA spending plan for 2023-24.
