The Department of Educational Leadership at San José State University's Connie L. Lurie College of Education is excited to announce a new MA Program:

Emancipatory Leadership for Schools beginning Summer, 2020*

Dear educators,

We hope you and your loved ones are well during these unprecedented times. You have helped our schools make tremendous shifts in how we engage our students while we shelter-in-place. Challenges including poverty and housing instability that our educators have been acutely aware of are now glaring to the public as many districts transition online. It is in this context that we invite educators to understand and challenge educational practices and policies that (re)produce social inequalities. If you aspire to transformative leadership that reshapes our systems and schools to create more democratic, equitable, culturally sustaining, and community responsive learning experiences for all, then this is the program for you.

The Emancipatory Leadership for Schools MA Program is a 13-month program that prepares school leaders through deep engagement with research and practice through applied consulting on local living case studies. As a learning community, we will work to create organizational cultures to reflect the diversity of experience and knowledge within school communities. Through research and practice, we will identify various ways to challenge inequitable practices and policies through cultivating community cultural wealth.

We have partnered with the LEAP program at the Santa Clara County Office of Education; qualified students who completed the CalAPA as part of their administrative credential will be able to transfer 12 units of coursework into SJSU’s Emancipatory Leadership in Schools MA Program. Partial scholarships of $3,500 are available for members of our inaugural 2020-21 cohort.

I am attaching a flyer to provide more information about the program. Please do not hesitate to reach out to me directly at (408) 924-3644 or rebeca.burciaga@sjsu.edu I would be happy to make some time to talk to you about this exciting new program and how it might support the efforts in your district.

In solidarity,

Rebeca Burciaga, PhD
Associate Professor of Educational Leadership & Chicana and Chicano Studies

MA, Emancipatory Leadership for Schools (MELS)
Summer 2020 admits will each receive a $3500 scholarship

OVERVIEW

The SJSU Connie L. Lurie College of Education’s Master’s in Emancipatory Leadership for Schools (MELS) is designed for emerging K-12 school leaders who wish to engage with emancipatory leadership practices to improve educational opportunities for historically marginalized students. This program will prepare school leaders through deep engagement with research and practice through applied consulting on living case studies.

Emancipatory school leadership approaches create organizational cultures to reflect the diversity of experience and knowledge within school communities through collaborative approaches to deconstruct power systems, challenge inequitable practices and policies, and cultivate community cultural wealth.

STRUCTURE

This new Master’s Degree is targeted to begin in Summer 2020 and designed to work in partnership with county LEAP programs to build upon the skills LEAP graduates bring to school settings. The program contains the following features:

- 14-month program (summer, fall, spring, summer)
- Hybrid model with courses taught in-person and online
- Students will be admitted as a cohort to enhance their success through collaborative problem posing approaches to leadership development
This program consists of 30 units of coursework. Students who have completed the CalAPA will be able to transfer 12 units of coursework and will take the remaining 18 units at SJSU’s Lurie College of Education.

ADMISSION REQUIREMENTS

1. CSU Apply online application | Program name: Education - Emancipatory Leadership (MA)
2. Emancipatory Leadership for Schools Application Form
3. Current résumé
4. A transcript reflecting the completion (or near completion) of the Preliminary Administrative Services Credential.
5. One set of unofficial transcripts from each university/college previously attended. For U.S. applicants, the degree must be from a regionally accredited university/college. An undergraduate degree is required to apply to a master's program. If admitted you will need to submit official transcripts prior to enrolling.
6. Three recommendations from a school leader, a faculty member in a preliminary administrative services credential program, and a colleague.

COURSE DESCRIPTIONS

SUMMER
- Epistemologies of Educational Leadership: Personal, Political, & Intellectual (3 units) - Introduction to the personal, political, and intellectual dimensions that inform one’s epistemology of educational leadership. Students engage with research on practices in the field of Educational Leadership alongside an auto-ethnographic exploration of how their experiences influence their approaches to leadership and identify areas of growth.
- Emancipatory Teaching and Learning (3 units) - Close study of instructional leadership and the ways school leaders have supported critical pedagogies including ethnic studies to highlight best practices that have resulted in increased student and community engagement.

FALL
- Equity & Access: Practices, Policies, & Pedagogies (3 units) - Engagement with local efforts in school communities that help improve equity and access challenges for historically marginalized students. Discussions with teacher leaders, principals, and school leaders about emancipatory leadership practices, policies, and pedagogies in practice. Students work closely with the course instructor and the Lurie College Leadership Fellow.

SPRING
- Emancipatory Leadership as Praxis (3 units) - Intensive experiential learning through applied consulting on living case studies aimed to challenge inequitable policies and practices to improve students’ opportunities to learn. Students work closely with the selected site or situation, as well as with their faculty member and the Lurie College Leadership Fellow (applied culminating experience)

SUMMER
- Critical Studies of Educational Policy (3 units) - A close study of historical and current educational policies. Interactions with local, statewide, and national advocates who have worked on writing and advocating for educational policies for social change.
- Envisioning Emancipatory Leadership (3 year action plan) (3 units) - Culminating course to synthesize personal and intellectual areas of growth. Students complete a 3-year action plan, outlining their core values, write a personal vision statement, cite current and lacking leadership skills and develop actionable goals to practice areas of growth.

Part 4.

Education either functions as an instrument which is used to facilitate integration of the younger generation into the logic of the present system and bring about conformity or it becomes the practice of freedom, the means by which people deal critically and creatively with reality and discover how to participate in the transformation of their world (Freire, p.16, 1970).

The Lurie College of Education Emancipatory Leadership for Schools Program is grounded in critical research and practices that highlight the emancipatory effects of culturally sustaining and participatory approaches to school leadership. We are excited to learn more about the insights and experiences you would bring to our learning community. Please answer the following questions within 4 pages of a double spaced document (PDF).

1. Please describe how your personal experiences inform your vision for engaging school communities through emancipatory leadership practices.
2. What are some ways that you have engaged school community members in culturally sustaining and participatory approaches to leading and learning.
3. Please share how your views on leadership relate to your experiences with race, class, citizenship status, language, gender identity, and sexuality.
4. What equity challenges do you hope to address through your training in the Emancipatory Leadership for Schools Program?
5. Is there anything else you would like to share?
