

Creating Inclusive Systems of Support for our High School Immigrant, Refugee and Undocumented Students

As California educators we have a strong focus on equity, inclusion and belonging for all students. In this political climate, we are addressing the support and education needed to make schools welcoming, supportive, and safe environments, through a systems lens.

In this workshop participants will:

- Learn the most current information and policies impacting our undocumented immigrant and refugee community
- Hear authentic stories and experiences of migration and how they connect to instruction in classrooms
- Recognize the importance and role of family within the undocumented immigrant and refugee community
- Understand how to exercise youth voice, empowerment and advocacy
- Engage in applications to address stress, fear, and trauma with students and educators
- Receive tools and resources educators can implement at their school or district wide
